As you can see by the lists above, you can almost pick any topic you like, or know something about, there are no subjects that somebody doesn't want information on.

So, start with your hobbies and interests, or something that you would like to learn a lot more about, do your research and see if there are people searching and/or buying products in that niche.

Don't forget to also research your audience and if products are being bought, in your chosen niche, there is no point in doing the work if nobody is buying.

I'm sure these will get you thinking!

All the Best!
